Serving the community to achieve more and better philanthropy.
President’s Report

As a member of Australia’s vibrant philanthropic community, I’m always awed by what we can achieve together. Nowhere is that sense of community more pronounced than among the membership of Philanthropy Australia, where I’ve had the honour of chairing the Council for the past four years.

As I prepare to step down from the role in June 2019, it strikes me that Philanthropy Australia’s journey over the past few years has been one of incredible, transformative change.

Change is never easy but it’s always an opportunity for growth. It was only as recently as 2014 that Philanthropy Australia opened offices in Adelaide and Brisbane, responding to the nation-wide growth in the sector and private ancillary funds in particular.

Just four short years ago we, as a philanthropic community, were only beginning to explore social finance and investment and wrestle with its meaning and application. The language of New Gen philanthropy had only started to take root and giving circles were swiftly emerging as a new way to involve more people in giving. The sector’s infrastructure was still under construction: the Australian Charities and Not-for-Profits Commission was fledgling, but we finally had a statutory definition of charity.

Fast forward to 2018 and what a long way we’ve come. Structured finance for blended return and impact investment is (dare I say) going mainstream; next-generation considerations are front and centre across all sectors and philanthropy is no different; collective giving is an established giving model and has tremendous potential for future growth. We are still challenged by how to normalise philanthropy and grow giving, but also thinking about how we maintain its social licence to operate and how we best use its precious social risk capital.

Philanthropy Australia has played a key role in the evolution of giving in this country and as a peak body, has grown alongside the sector it serves.

One thing at Philanthropy Australia’s core is the policy and advocacy work we undertake for the sector. This has strengthened considerably over the last few years and the criticality of an informed collective voice and active engagement in policy debates was reinforced in 2018.

I am proud that four years ago we challenged ourselves, asked some hard questions and clarified our purpose and focus as a peak body. We made a deliberate decision to be ambitious, to serve the philanthropic community to achieve more and better philanthropy.

Now, two years into our four-year strategic plan, the outlook is good. We know there’s more work to be done, but the shoots are green, the energy and appetite is high, our community is healthy, connected and ambitious.

Thank you to our members who work towards the remarkable achievement of making a positive and lasting impact in our communities. Thank you to our Philanthropy Champions, for backing us and putting your shoulders to the mill with us. Thank you to Sarah Davies and Philanthropy Australia staff, past and present, for your dedication, hard work, energy and passion.

And finally, thank you to my fellow Council members – it’s been a privilege working with you as a genuine team united in our desire to serve members to achieve more and better philanthropy.

Alan Schwartz AM
President
Chief Executive Officer’s Report

Everything we do at Philanthropy Australia is designed to contribute to our purpose of serving the community to achieve more and better philanthropy. For me, the word ‘together’ has been a defining characteristic of 2018, a year in which we worked hard to deliver new platforms, events and opportunities for our members and the wider giving community to come together, learn from each other and refine their philanthropic practice.

It was a big year for events, with our biennial National Conference in September being the culmination of two years’ worth of planning and hard work to bring together some of Australia’s and the world’s most innovative philanthropic practitioners, including our Australian Philanthropy Leaders (Audette Exel, Allan English and Ian Darling), Larry Kramer from the Hewlett Foundation, Fred Blackwell from The San Francisco Foundation and Danielle Walker-Palmour from Friends Provident Foundation, to challenge and inspire us. More than 740 members of Australia’s philanthropic community joined us, sharing and showcasing the breadth of Australia’s dynamic and impactful philanthropy.

The annual Australian Philanthropy Awards also continue to grow, with this year’s event held at the iconic Sydney Opera House. Our seven award recipients showcased the best of visionary, high-impact and transformative philanthropy.

Throughout the year we delivered 80-plus member networks and events that stimulated, inspired and provoked reflection and thinking about philanthropic practice.

There were plenty of launches in 2018 too, including the launch of our new membership offering and the Better Giving Hub – a platform that is designed to build a larger community of practice that will allow us to connect, share and build a repository of knowledge and resources. Sitting inside the Better Giving Hub is Foundation Maps Australia, an interactive and searchable map which shows for the first time who’s funding what and where.

Our advocacy and policy initiatives, designed to ‘defend and extend’ the philanthropic ecosystem, were another key pillar of our work in 2018. It’s been a tough and contentious year for advocacy and policy, but we remain steadfast in our view that defending the operating space of this sector and the critical contribution of philanthropy and our non-profit sector more broadly is essential to a healthy democracy and achieving positive change.
As the peak body, we have represented, collaborated and challenged, both privately and publicly, to maintain philanthropy’s abilities and scope to pursue and support change at a policy and system level and will continue to do so in the year ahead.

From a structural point of view, in late 2018 our members unanimously voted to update our governance structure and move from being an incorporated association in Victoria to a company limited by guarantee, which is a terrifically positive step for Philanthropy Australia’s future.

It’s been a big year and, as they say, it takes a village. My personal thanks to our Council and our President, Alan Schwartz, for continuing to support our ideas, advancements and achievements. Thank you to our partners who joined with us this year to deliver initiatives and events in service of more and better philanthropy. Thank you to my team at Philanthropy Australia who make it all happen and thank you to each and every one of our members – you’re the reason we’re here.

INFORMATION ON COUNCIL MEMBERS

Background information on our Council members can be located on our website:

PRINCIPAL ACTIVITIES AND SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN NATURE OF ACTIVITIES

Vision and Purpose

Philanthropy Australia defines philanthropy as the planned and structured giving of money, time, information, goods and services, voice and influence to improve the wellbeing of humanity and the community.

We define the philanthropic sector as trusts, foundations, organisations, families and individuals who engage in philanthropy.

Philanthropy Australia’s vision is to achieve a more giving Australia and to this end, our purpose is to serve the philanthropic community to achieve more and better philanthropy.

As the peak body we serve a community of funders, grant-makers, social investors and change agents working to achieve positive social, cultural, environmental and community change by leveraging their financial assets and influence. Philanthropy Australia gives our members a collective voice and ability to influence and shape the future of the sector and advance philanthropy. The philanthropic community comes together through Philanthropy Australia to build its collective voice, capacity, impact and influence.

Philanthropy Australia’s principal activities comprise:

• representing and advocating for the philanthropic sector as the national peak body for philanthropy
• supporting and enabling an innovative, growing, influential and high performing philanthropic sector in Australia
• promoting the contribution of philanthropy by growing the understanding of the community, business and government.
• inspiring and supporting new philanthropists
• increasing the effectiveness of philanthropy through the provision of information, professional development, resources and networking and collaboration opportunities
• promoting strong and transparent governance standards in the philanthropic sector
• providing information to those seeking to understand, access or partner with the philanthropic sector.

The organisation works Australia-wide from offices in Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide and Brisbane.

Membership fees, professional development and learning fees, consulting services fees, donations, grants and partnerships all contribute to funding Philanthropy Australia.

Philanthropy Australia’s 2017-2020 Strategic Map explains Philanthropy Australia’s four-year goals, outlined below.

2020 Goals

• To provide an informed and prominent voice for the sector as an advocate and influencer to enable philanthropy to grow and drive effective change.
• To facilitate and support effective working groups, networks and partnerships within and between philanthropy, community, government and business.
• To facilitate openness and transparency, including the efficient collection, analysis and sharing of data and information and to initiate and promote strategic research in order to inform the work and direction of the philanthropic sector.
• To build the capability of the sector through expert and professional learning by providing professional development programs, conferences, master classes and study tours.
• Using technology, to build a community of interest across the sector, engage and share a range of resources, information and tools; and connect and network for shared interest and outcomes.
• To achieve strong governance, an engaged and high performing team, and a financially sound business model.

Key Financial and Performance results for year-ended 31 December 2018

Philanthropy Australia’s evolution of its business model continued into 2018, developed to support achievement of its 2017-2020 strategic goals, as well as financial sustainability. The business model identifies two symbiotic components:
(i) Serving Members – relating to the strategic priorities of connecting and convening, our national Conference, Awards, professional learning and the launch of our digital membership platform, the Better Giving Hub & Foundation Maps Australia. In 2018, our new membership value proposition was launched. The revenue from membership fees aims to cover all costs associated with delivery of these membership services; and

(ii) Advancing Philanthropy – relating to the strategic priorities of leadership and advocacy, research, data and insight, and strategic projects and collaborations which advance more and better philanthropy. These initiatives are funded by project donations, grants and capacity building support, as well as by the contributions from Philanthropy Champions.

In some cases, Philanthropy Australia receives funding for specific projects which is spread across more than one financial year. These projects include our Storytelling initiative, our digital platform (Better Giving Hub, launched in 2018) and Foundation Maps Australia, and the Economic Case for Philanthropy. Where accounting standards do not allow income to be deferred into the years in which the work will be undertaken, we have recognised this income as a ‘surplus’ but have noted these as ‘restricted funds’ within the Profit and Loss Statement and the Equity statement. Where accounting standards allow us to defer income, this has been included in our statement of Financial Position.

At the end of 2018, Philanthropy Australia had an unrestricted surplus from normal operations of $186,419 (excluding restricted funds tied to future years projects). We received $345,000 of restricted funds for projects continuing into future years, and at the end of 2018 there is a balance in reserves for expenses of these projects in future years. Together, they make up the 2018 end of year position of a $531,419 (FY17 $494,705) surplus.

Philanthropy Australia developed clear targets for partnership income for our strategic projects, member and Thought-leader events, and our Conference. Our Philanthropy Champions initiative grew, with over 20 philanthropy leaders supporting Philanthropy Australia for three years, under-pinning our capacity whilst we advance philanthropy, and embark on our membership transition strategy.

We were fortunate to achieve these 2018 targets for support and ended the year with a surplus. Our philanthropy Champions supported our capacity building with donations of $610,000, contributing to, and enabling PA to be proactive in our policy and advocacy work in 2018, and improving our ongoing financial stability of our operating reserves.

Our income remained steady against 2017, $4.259 million. Our national conference provided $570,446 of registration fees. Sponsorships, and project grants increased by 31%. Income from collaboration partnerships and government grants decreased in 2018 as PA concluded large programs with NAB and local government.

Our membership fees were $1.028 million. Membership numbers declined in 2018, a decline of 4%. Primarily, the membership loss since 2016 has come from the New Generation of Giving program (a decline of over 120 members). This program will be relaunched in 2019 with a new strategy and focus.

Expenditure was aligned to our budget plans for 2018. Our national Conference increased our events and marketing expenditure. PA invested in improving our CRM and ICT platforms in 2018, including our strategic projects (the Better Giving Hub, Foundation Maps Australia). We expanded our FTE team and headcount to deliver on our strategic goals.
INFORMATION ON OTHER KEY NON-COUNCIL MEMBERS

Sarah Davies, CEO

Prior to joining Philanthropy Australia in October 2015, Sarah was CEO of The Reach Foundation, a for-purpose organisation working to improve the wellbeing of young people so they can get the most out of life. Sarah has also been CEO of the Australian Communities Foundation, a non-profit charitable foundation which enables accessible philanthropy and matches its donors’ interests to emerging social issues and needs of communities. Before moving into the non-profit sector, her professional life included senior executive roles in tertiary education in Australia and private sector consulting in HR, marketing and strategy in Australia, Europe and the Middle East. Sarah’s current community roles include Director of Kids Under Cover and board member of the Centre for Social Impact. Note 1(L) of the Financial Statements explains the distinction of funds and reserves.

Notes to the Financial Statements
For the Year Ended 31 December 2018

SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

(a) Basis of Preparation
The financial statements are general purpose financial statements that have been prepared in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards – Reduced Disclosure Requirements of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012. Philanthropy Australia is a not-for-profit entity for financial reporting purposes under Australian Accounting Standards. Australian Accounting Standards set out accounting policies that the AASB has concluded would result in financial statements containing relevant and reliable information about transactions, events and conditions. Material accounting policies adopted in the preparation of these financial statements are presented below and have been consistently applied unless stated otherwise.
The financial statements, except for the cash flow information, have been prepared on an accruals basis and are based on historical costs, modified, where applicable, by the measurement at fair value of selected non-current assets, financial assets and financial liabilities. The amounts presented in the financial statements have been rounded to the nearest dollar.

(b) Comparative Amounts
When required by Accounting Standards, comparative figures have been adjusted to conform to changes in presentation for the current financial year.

(c) Income Tax
The Association is registered with the Australian Charities and Not-for-Profit Commission (ACNC) and is exempt from income tax under Division 50 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997.

(d) Leases
Lease payments for operating leases, where substantially all of the risks and benefits remain with the lessor, are charged as expenses on a straight-line basis over the life of the lease term.

(e) Revenue and other income
The membership fee from members is recognised proportionately over the subscription year. Any balance not earned as income at year-end is recognised as unearned income in liabilities.
Revenue from member fees and subscriptions are treated as income when paid.
Interest revenue is recognised on a proportional basis, considering the interest rates applicable to the financial assets. Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised upon delivery of goods to customers.
Grant and donation revenue is recognised in the statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income when the entity obtains control of the grant, it is probable that the economic benefits gained from the grant will flow to the entity and the amount of the grant can be measured reliably. Donations are recognised immediately on receipt.
Collaboration Grants and donations are recognised separately, as these receipts (and subsequent grants by PA) occur when Philanthropy Australia leads with sector partners on initiatives to advance philanthropic learning and research.
When grant revenue is received whereby the entity incurs an obligation to deliver economic value directly back to the contributor, this is considered a reciprocal transaction and grant revenue is recognised in the statement of financial position as a liability until the services has been delivered to the contributor, otherwise the grant is recognised as income on receipt.
Revenue from member events, workshops, seminars, webinars, study tours and The Philanthropy Conference (or Summit) was recognised as income in advance and brought to account as income after the completion of the event. This revenue is recognised as income when invoiced and earned. All revenue is stated net of goods and services tax (GST).

(f) Goods and Services Tax (GST)
Revenue, expenses and assets are recognised net of the amount of goods and services tax (GST), except where the amount of GST incurred is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office (ATO).
Receivables and payables are stated inclusive of GST. The net amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to, the ATO is included as part of receivables or payables in the statement of financial position.

Cash flows in the statement of cash flows are included on a gross basis and the GST component of cash flows arising from investing and financing activities which is recoverable from, or payable to, the taxation authority is classified as operating cash flows.

(g) Plant, Equipment and Software Development

Each class of plant, equipment and software development is carried at cost or fair value as indicated less, where applicable, any accumulated depreciation and impairment losses.

Plant and equipment and software development is measured on a cost basis less depreciation and impairment losses. Cost includes expenditure that is directly attributable to the asset. In the event the carrying amount of plant and equipment or software development is greater than its estimated recoverable amount, the carrying amount is written down immediately to its estimated recoverable amount and impairment losses recognised either in profit or loss or as a revaluation decrease if the impairment losses relate to a revalued asset. A formal assessment of recoverable amount is made when impairment indicators are present.

Depreciation

The depreciable amount of all fixed assets is depreciated on a straight-line basis over the asset’s useful life commencing from the time the asset is held ready for use. Leasehold improvements are depreciated over the shorter of either the unexpired period of the lease or the estimated useful lives of the improvements.

The depreciation rates used for each class of depreciable asset are shown below:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Fixed asset class</th>
<th>Depreciation rate</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Furniture, Fixtures and Fittings</td>
<td>33%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Office Equipment</td>
<td>33%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Software Development</td>
<td>33–100%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

At the end of each annual reporting period, the depreciation method, useful life and residual value of each asset is reviewed. Any revisions are accounted for prospectively as a change in estimate.

(h) Financial instruments

Financial instruments are recognised initially using trade date accounting, i.e. on the date that Association becomes party to the contractual provisions of the instrument.

On initial recognition, all financial instruments are measured at fair value plus transaction costs (except for instruments measured at fair value through profit or loss where transaction costs are expensed as incurred).

Held-to-maturity investments

Held-to-maturity investments are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments and fixed maturity. Investments are classified as held-to-maturity if it is the intention of the Association’s management to hold them until maturity.

Held-to-maturity investments are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method, with revenue recognised on an effective yield basis. In addition, if there is objective evidence that the investment has been impaired, the financial asset is measured at the present value of estimated cash flows. Any changes to the carrying amount of the investment are recognised in profit or loss.

(i) Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand, on demand deposits and short-term investments which are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and which are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value.

Any bank overdrafts also form part of cash equivalents for the purpose of the statement of cash flows and are presented within current liabilities on the statement of financial position.
(j) Employee benefits

Provision is made for the Association’s liability for employee benefits arising from services rendered by employees to the end of the reporting period. Employee benefits that are expected to be settled within one year have been measured at the amounts expected to be paid when the liability is settled.

Employee benefits expected to be settled more than twelve months after the end of the reporting period have been measured at the present value of the estimated future cash outflows to be made for those benefits. In determining the liability, consideration is given to the probability that the employee may satisfy vesting requirements. Cash flows are discounted using market yields on corporate bonds with terms to maturity that match the expected timing of cash flows. Changes in the measurement of the liability are recognised in profit or loss.

For the purpose of measurement, AASB 119 defines obligations for short-term employee benefits as obligations expected to be settled wholly within 12 months after the end of the annual reporting period in which the employees render the related services. In accordance with AASB 119, provisions for short-term employee benefits are measured at the (undiscounted) amounts expected to be paid to employees when the obligation is settled, whereas provisions that do not meet the criteria for classification as short-term (other long-term employee benefits) are measured at the present value of the expected future payments to be made to employees.

(k) Critical accounting estimates and judgments

Key estimates – impairment

Philanthropy Australia assesses impairment at the end of each reporting year by evaluating conditions specific to the Association that may be indicative of impairment triggers. Recoverable amounts of relevant assets are reassessed using value-in-use calculations, which incorporate various key assumptions.

(l) Restricted/Unrestricted funds and equity reserves

Restricted funds are funds received or reserves held that must be spent on the purpose for which they were received or are held. They comprise grant funding that must be spent in accordance with the terms of the funding agreement and donations and sponsorships where the donor indicates a condition or preference for how the funds should be spent. All other funds are unrestricted in that the Council has the discretion to spend them on purposes for which Philanthropy Australia was established.

The purpose of separately identifying Philanthropy Australia reserves is as follows:

Retained Earnings (Unrestricted Reserves) – The reserve is established for retained earnings, to stabilise short term fluctuations in cashflows to ensure Philanthropy Australia is financially resilient and can continue its strategic objectives uninterrupted.

Restricted Funds Reserve – The restricted funds reserve represents unexpended grants, sponsorships and donations allocated to specific purpose initiatives and projects that cross reporting years, which develop the capability and capacity of Philanthropy Australia to Advance Philanthropy.

Audit, Risk and Compliance Committee Chair
Independent Audit Report to the members of Philanthropy Australia

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying financial report of Philanthropy Australia, which comprises the statement of financial position as at 31 December 2018, the statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income, statement of changes in equity and statement of cash flows for the year then ended, notes comprising a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information, and the council members’ declaration.

In our opinion, the financial report of Philanthropy Australia is in accordance with the Associations Incorporation Reform Act 2012 (Vic) and Division 60 of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012, including:

(i) giving a true and fair view of the association’s financial position as at 31 December 2018 and of its performance and cash flows for the year ended on that date; and

(ii) complying with the Australian Accounting Standards - Reduced Disclosure Requirements and Division 60 of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Regulation 2013.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor’s Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Report section of our report. We are independent of the association in accordance with the auditor independence requirements of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012 and the ethical requirements of the Accounting Professional and Ethical Standards Board’s APES 110 Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (the Code) that are relevant to our audit of the financial report in Australia. We have also fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the Code.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Responsibilities of the Council for the Financial Report

The council members of the association are responsible for the preparation of the financial report that gives a true and fair view in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards, the Associations Incorporation Reform Act 2012 (Vic) and the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012. The council’s responsibility also includes such internal control as the council determines necessary to enable the preparation of a financial report that gives a true and fair view and is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial report, the council is responsible for assessing the association’s ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the council either intends to liquidate the association or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the association’s financial reporting process.

Independent Audit Report to the members of Philanthropy Australia

Information Other than the Financial Report and Auditor’s Report Thereon

The council members are responsible for the other information. The other information consist of the council members’ report accompanying the financial report.

Our opinion on the financial report does not cover the other information and accordingly we will not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the financial report, our responsibility is to read the other information identified above when it becomes available and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the financial report or our knowledge obtained in the audit, or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report that fact. We have nothing to report in this regard.

Auditor’s Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Report

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial report as a whole is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor’s report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the financial report.

As part of an audit in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards, we exercise professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

• Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial report, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.

• Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the registered entity’s internal control.

• Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by responsible entities.

• Conclude on the appropriateness of responsible entities’ use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the registered entity’s ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor’s report to the related disclosures in the financial report or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor’s report. However, future events or conditions may cause the registered entity to cease to continue as a going concern.

• Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial report, including the disclosures, and whether the financial report represents the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
Independent Audit Report to the members of Philanthropy Australia

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.
