Philanthropy Australia is the national peak body for the philanthropic sector, representing the interests of grantmaking private, family, corporate and community trusts, foundations and individuals.

Its mission is to represent and support the philanthropic sector and influence and engage in public policy, which will result in a benefit to its members and society at large. It works to improve public understanding and recognition of the relationship between philanthropy and the well being of the community, through the pursuit of goals including servicing and educating members and the broader philanthropic sector and raising the profile of philanthropy through advocacy and public policy debate.

The organisation is headquartered in Melbourne and also has offices in Sydney.

Membership fees, publication sales, training workshop fees, fee-for-service research services and consultancies fund Philanthropy Australia. It also receives funding from a number of leading trusts and foundations to support its work of promoting Australian philanthropy.

Services include:

- An annual calendar of members’ seminars, presenting national and international speakers and issues in key areas of interest
- Australia’s most comprehensive Resource Centre of philanthropic information
- Australian Philanthropy, a journal which documents and analyses developments in domestic philanthropy
- Bi-annual publication of The Australian Directory of Philanthropy
- Publication of texts designed to meet the information and management needs of the Australian philanthropic sector
- Original research on Australian philanthropy and its environment
- Advocacy - particularly tax advocacy - on behalf of members to Federal and State Governments and other major public and private institutions
- Consultancy services to individuals, families and corporations preparing to establish a charitable trust
- Special interest affinity groups, in key grantmaking areas

A formal Code of Practice was ratified by members at the Annual General Meeting and subsequently formally adopted by a significant number of member trusts and foundations. The Code of Practice aims to encourage best practice, openness and transparency in all aspects of grantmaking.

The Stegley Foundation was awarded Life Membership of Philanthropy Australia (PA) in a moving ceremony at the April 24th Annual General Meeting as a means of preserving the Foundation’s name and recognising its contribution to philanthropy.

A new affinity group was established - Agriculture and Rural Affairs - the first meeting of which was opened by Philanthropy Australia’s patron, Sir Gus Nossal AC CBE. This brought the number of affinity groups meeting quarterly to four, with Indigenous, Disability Services and Early Childhood Intervention.

With a grant from The Myer Foundation, PA engaged a consultant to conduct a quantitative survey of philanthropic trusts and foundations known to it. The purpose of the survey was to gather quantitative data on the sector and produce a report that philanthropic bodies could use for benchmarking purposes and PA can use to assist in advocacy and public policy. The survey was conducted during 2002 and the analysis of the data is currently underway with the report of the findings due for release in 2003.

Services
Grantmaking Essentials: policy, practice, priorities, a new specialist one-day grantmaker workshop was introduced.

Philanthropy Australia’s Resource Centre was transformed into a fully-fledged online library, with the completion of information technology projects generously funded by Dame Elisabeth Murdoch. This culminated in the launch of a new, interactive website, the first online, key word searchable edition of The Australian Directory of Philanthropy and the introduction of a fully searchable, online library catalogue.

The Resource Centre became the first international member of the Council on Foundations’ Consortium of Foundation Libraries, a network of libraries and information centres which share resources and coordinate information services for foundations and their supporting organisations.
The Resource Centre initiated the development of a draft common language for classifying areas of funding across the Australian philanthropic sector. The common classification system for philanthropic funding areas is designed to be used to support an information-sharing database and will enhance efforts to foster the use of a standard grants administration system by foundations throughout Australia.

Publications

Dr Diana Leat’s Working on Governance and Accountability: A Manual for Philanthropic Foundations, published by Philanthropy Australia, is the first specialist text addressing governance and accountability issues for an Australian philanthropic audience.

Events

WINGSforum 2002 was held in Sydney in March 2002. ‘WINGS’ stands for Worldwide Initiatives for Grantmaker Support, and brings together representatives of organisations that support philanthropy. The keynote speaker was James Joseph, formerly US Ambassador to South Africa and President of the US Council on Foundations. More than 150 international delegates attended the meeting, which drew substantial media coverage, raising the profile of Australian philanthropy.

More than 60 delegates attended the third annual Australian Community Foundations’ Forum, which was jointly presented by Philanthropy Australia and the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal.

Speakers at members’ forums included Dr Diana Leat, The Myer Foundation Research Fellow in Philanthropy at QUT, who spoke on Foundation Governance and Accountability in Australia and the UK; Steven Burkeman, formerly of The Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust, who analysed the practical implications of the relationship between philanthropy and the state; Kathleen Duncan, Director General of Lloyds TSB Foundation for England and Wales; and Michael Trail of Social Ventures Australia.

ANZ Chief Executive John McFarlane OBE addressed the inaugural Presidents’ Dinner at Cranlana, on 4 July, on the topic of corporate social responsibility.

Appointments

Community foundation services were substantially increased with the appointment of Andrew Lawson as (part-time) Community Foundations Development Officer, a position funded by grant monies received from the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation. Planning began for the establishment of two new urban-based community foundations, with a grant provided by the Department of Family and Community Services.

The appointment of Jane Kenny as Membership Services Officer – NSW in August significantly increased services offered to Sydney based members of Philanthropy Australia.

Partnerships/relationships/external research agreements

In an important new development, Philanthropy Australia facilitated the development of the National Roundtable of Nonprofit Organisations, modelled on the UK’s National Council for Voluntary Organisations, the USA’s Independent Sector and the Canadian Voluntary Sector Roundtable. Its inaugural Chairman is Robert Fitzgerald AM, former President of VCOSS and now NSW Commissioner of Community Services. Philanthropy Australia is a founding member and provides secretariat services to the new organisation.

Philanthropy Australia entered into a new Australian Research Council agreement with Deakin University, to initiate research on New Trends in Foundation Formation. The resulting study will provide information on trends in foundations, including the rationales, structures, investment and grantmaking policies.
Philanthropy Australia significantly increased its range of services in 2002, and this was reflected in increased membership and a greater take-up of services.

Melbourne has long been a stronghold of family and private trusts and foundations, but Sydney is Australia’s commercial capital and a burgeoning source of philanthropic funds. Sydney is crucial to the development and expansion of Australian philanthropy. Its important role was reflected in Philanthropy Australia’s appointment of Jane Kenny as Membership Services Officer – NSW in August 2002. Already we are seeing the benefits of an on-the-ground staff member in Sydney, in the form of greater participation by Sydney-based members in Philanthropy Australia services, increased membership recruitment, and the development of closer, collegiate relationships between Sydney-based grantmakers.

Community foundations are the fastest-growing form of philanthropic foundation worldwide and Philanthropy Australia again increased its investment in supporting this branch of the sector. With the aid of grant monies from the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation, and in partnership with the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal (FRRR), Philanthropy Australia hosted the Australian Community Foundations’ Forum and followed this with the appointment of Andrew Lawson as Community Foundations Development Officer. Andrew’s appointment is supported by funds from FRRR and Community Foundations of Australasia and he provides practical advice and assistance to the (largely volunteer) staff and trustees of the more than 25 community foundations which have been established in recent times.

Australians may have read of the extraordinary generosity of Charles Feeney, founder of Atlantic Philanthropies, the US based foundation which has supported, to the tune of tens of millions of dollars, a number of major Australian educational, medical and charitable institutions. We were honoured that Atlantic Philanthropies has become a Leading Member of Philanthropy Australia, recognising our important contribution to the growth of philanthropy within this country.

Our Leading Members provide Philanthropy Australia with the wherewithal to offer support and assistance to grantseekers and new entrants into the field of philanthropy and to fund essential research into the sector – fundamental tasks which support the growth of Australian philanthropy, but which, in many instances, do not return any income. Of course, the organisation does pursue fee-for-service opportunities – witness its training workshops, consultancy services and publications.

Our sponsors and supporters provide immense in-kind support to Philanthropy Australia and this is critical to the organisation’s continuing operation. The ANZ Banking Group continues to provide office accommodation in Melbourne. Freehills offers extensive pro bono legal advice and support-backing which is critical to Philanthropy Australia’s crucial role in tax advocacy on behalf of its members. In Sydney, Mr Brian Sherman has generously accommodated staff member Jane Kenny in his Sydney office. To them I offer our sincere thanks and appreciation.

I will conclude by thanking my fellow Council Members for their efforts on behalf of our membership, and in reiterating the determination of staff and council to continue to work in your interests in 2003.
The 2002 year saw a further increase in new membership services and we were fortunate that membership grew at a similar rate as over the last five years. Philanthropy Australia itself expanded interstate, with funding from Dame Elisabeth Murdoch allowing us to employ Jane Kenny in Sydney in the role of Membership Services Officer. I wish to thank Brian Sherman for his generosity and foresight in offering Philanthropy Australia a home in Sydney, which will assist in the further development of an association with a nation-wide focus.

The voluntary Code of Practice was unanimously adopted at the Annual General Meeting, in April 2002. The Code is significant not only because it was unanimously adopted, but more importantly because it has initiated debate within the sector about important issues such as transparency and accountability. It is hoped that such debate will encourage foundations to develop and seek out original solutions to these issues, in a way that allows them to maintain and preserve their uniqueness without sacrificing their role and purpose within Australian society. This Code has been initiated, not as a means of bureaucratising foundations, but to enhance, protect and promote the diversity of the philanthropic sector in Australia. It is envisaged that addressing issues such as transparency and accountability will in fact strengthen and validate the place of the sector within society, thus increasing the awareness and understanding of the role philanthropy plays in our community.

On the 11th December 2002, the Prime Minister, The Hon. John Howard, announced a second round of tax incentives aimed at increasing personal and corporate philanthropy. This is regarded as a very exciting development, which has to date, along with previous initiatives, resulted in the establishment of 81 new foundations, one of the largest annual increases in the sector’s history.

In 2002, a substantial amount of time was spent facilitating the development of a National Roundtable of Nonprofit Organisations. The Roundtable is chaired by Robert Fitzgerald and has 18 members, from a variety of arenas. This initiative brings together representatives from the conservation, overseas aid, education, religious, arts and welfare sectors. The Roundtable has been established to provide critical infrastructure for the not-for-profit sector and to promote knowledge about it. Few in the community understand that this sector accounts for eight per cent of GDP and employs more people than the mining industry. The Roundtable is a crucial development because it is the first time that the various members have joined together as a united sector to promote interests which are common to all the parties involved.

Finally, none of these developments would have been possible without the hard work of the staff at Philanthropy Australia, especially the General Manager Ruth Jones, and I want to thank all the staff for their continued support. I would also like to thank and acknowledge Kerrie Zammit, my former Executive Assistant, who left Philanthropy Australia this year. I would also like to thank the members of our Council, who have played a pivotal role in our successes and I thank them all for their time and commitment. I would especially like to express my thanks to our President, Lady Southey, whose energy, hard work and graciousness have ensured that Philanthropy Australia flourished during 2002.

Financial plan and operating results

The financial plan and budget adopted by Council at the start of the financial year envisaged another year of expansion, both in terms of the range of activities and services to members and, hence, the level of resources required. The plan and budget were achieved on the income side but costs were overrun.

A substantial proportion of this growth was funded by an increase in membership fees, due to growth in membership numbers, an increase in grants received for specific tasks, an increase in consulting fees received, and monies received for the WINGS Forum hosted by Philanthropy Australia held in March 2002.

Income

Total income for the year was $1,256,623, up $233,496 (22.8 per cent) on last year.

Members’ fees increased, (by 13.1 per cent, up from $241,066 to $272,654), as a consequence of an increase in members in all categories. Leading Members fees showed a decrease of $25,000 (14.3 per cent) resulting from two leading members not renewing their commitment and one new member signing for three years.

Directory sales increased substantially, (by 94.08 per cent, up from $56,640 to $109,930), as a direct result of the release of the 11th edition of ‘The Australian Directory of Philanthropy’ in both hard copy and online. Sales, even though substantially higher than last year, fell short of what was anticipated due to a delay in the release from January 2002 to late April 2002.

Grants brought to account during the year amounted to $224,867, a decrease from $279,514 (19.55 per cent). Grants received from Lady Southey, The Myer Foundation, The Charles Stewart Mott Foundation, and the Department of Family & Community Services have partially been capitalised and will be brought to account next financial year, to match expenses.

Consulting fees increased substantially, (by 45.4 per cent up from $111,144 to $161,600) as a direct result of the Community Support Fund tender won in late 2001. All work has been completed on this tender.

A net increase of $176,177 or 126 per cent was recorded in all other sources of income. This resulted mainly from WINGS Forum monies received for the conference held March 2002. The WINGS Forum resulted in a net loss of $12,900 for Philanthropy Australia as a consequence of not being able to secure a major sponsor.

Expenses

Total expenses increased by $277,827 (27.1 per cent) compared to last year. Of this $160,393 was expected due to the employment of consultants for the WINGS Forum Conference, research of the Corporate Directory, and work on the Community Support Fund. With the exception of the WINGS Forum, the above costs were fully funded by grants received. The remaining $117,434 increase from last year resulted from an increase in staff costs, increase in provision for doubtful debts and small decreases in other expenses. The increase in staff costs resulted from the introduction of Salary Packaging with Philanthropy Australia footing the fringe benefits tax bill, the employment of two new staff, pay increases, and the increase in associated employee costs.

Final operating result

The final result for 2002 was a deficit of $43,111, compared to a surplus of $1,220 achieved in the previous year. This was a $73,705 decrease on the budgeted surplus of $30,594.

Financial position and liquidity

The general Fund Account, representing accumulated members’ funds, fell from $94,811 at the end of the last financial year, to $64,200 at year’s end, through the deduction of the year’s net deficit of $30,611.

Economic dependency exists in relation to rent. Currently Philanthropy Australia has entered a rent arrangement with ANZ whereby Philanthropy Australia pays ANZ an annual lump sum of $65,000 and ANZ generously provide a grant for the same amount. The current arrangement is for three years, due to end in August 2005. This is a major factor in enabling Philanthropy Australia to provide the current services to members.

The future

Philanthropy Australia looks forward to sustained and substantial growth over the next three years.

1. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES
This financial report is a general purpose financial report that has been prepared in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards, Urgent Issues Group Consensus Views and other authoritative pronouncements of Australian Accounting Standards Board and the requirements of the Associations Incorporations Act Victoria. The financial report is prepared on an accruals basis and is based on historical costs and does not take into account changing money values or, except where stated, current valuations of non-current assets. Cost is based on fair values of the consideration given in exchange for assets. The accounting policies have been consistently applied, unless otherwise stated.

The following is a summary of the material accounting policies adopted by the Association in the preparation of the financial report:

(a) Revenue
Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised upon delivery of goods to customers.

Interest revenue is recognised on a proportional basis taking into account the interest rates applicable to the financial assets.

Revenue from Full, Associate and Resource Centre members, is recognised when invoiced. When the payment is received, the portion paid in advance is accounted for as unearned income and amortised over the remainder of the subscription year.

Revenue from Leading Members fees are treated as grants received and brought to account as income when invoiced.

(b) Income tax
The association believes it is income tax exempt. The association has an application pending with the Australian Taxation Office for endorsement as an Income Tax Exempt Charity (ITEC).

(c) Inventories
Inventories consist of finished goods being publications and are measured at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs are assigned on a specific identification basis and include direct costs and appropriate overheads, if any.

(d) Furniture and equipment
The depreciation rates amount of all furniture and equipment are depreciated on a straight line basis over useful lives of the assets to the association commencing from the time the asset is held ready for use.

The depreciation rates used for each class of depreciable asset are:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Depreciation rate</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Furniture and fixtures: 33 per cent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Office equipment: 33 per cent</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The carrying amount of furniture and equipment is reviewed annually by councillors to ensure it is not in excess of the recoverable amount of those assets.

The recoverable amount is assessed on the basis of expected net cash flows which will be received from the assets’ employment and subsequent disposal. The expected net cash flows have not been discounted to their present values in determining the recoverable amounts.
1. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES continued

(e) Leases
Lease payments under operating leases, where substantial all the risks and benefits remain with the lessor, are charged as expenses in the periods in which they are incurred.

(f) Employee entitlements
Provision is made for the company’s liability for the employee entitlements arising from services rendered by employees to balance date. Employee entitlements expected to be settled within one year together with entitlements arising from wages and salaries, annual leave and sick leave which will be settled after one year, have been measured at their nominal rate. Other employee entitlements payable later than one year have been measured at the present value of estimated future cash outflows to be made for those entitlements.

Contributions are made by the association to an employee superannuation fund and are charged as expenses when incurred.

(g) Cash
For the purposes of the Statement of Cash Flows, cash includes cash on hand, at banks, on deposit, and bank bills.

(b) Credit risk
The maximum exposure to credit risk, excluding the value of any collateral or other security at balance date to recognised financial assets is the carrying amount, net of any provisions for doubtful debts, as disclosed in the balance sheet and notes to the financial statements.

The association does not have any material credit risk exposure to any single debtor or group of debtors under financial instruments entered into by the association.

(c) Net fair values
Methods and assumptions used in determining net fair value.

The net fair values of listed investments have been valued at the quoted market bid price at balance date adjusted for transaction costs expected to be incurred. For other assets and other liabilities the net fair value approximates their carrying value. No financial assets and financial liabilities are readily traded on organised markets in standardised form other than listed investments. Financial assets where the carrying amount exceeds net fair values have not been written down as the economic entity intends to hold these assets to maturity.

The aggregate net fair values and carrying amounts of financial assets and liabilities are disclosed in the balance sheet and in the notes to the financial statements.
