2001 Highlights

Launch of New Corporate Image

In recognition of the organisation's development, a new logo and corporate image to be reflected in all publications and other materials was introduced early in 2001.

Expanded Online and Information Services

The first stage of Philanthropy Australia's expanded website came online in August 2001 and by November was attracting some 200,000 hits per month.

The updated website is the first stage in a major information services overhaul, designed to increase resources available to Philanthropy Australia members and the general public. Philanthropy Australia's substantial library has now been catalogued onto the National Library's database and will be available in searchable, online form by mid 2002. An expanded, Members' only section of the website will open in early 2002.

Community Foundations

2001 saw a dramatic expansion of services offered to the emerging community foundations sector. Services include advice and referral, the development of a community foundations' portal on the Philanthropy Australia website, and publication, with the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal of The Community Foundations Kit – Building Stronger Australian Communities. Philanthropy Australia provided feasibility grants to five local communities, in Victoria, South Australia, Queensland and New South Wales, to test the viability of establishing a local community foundation.

Speakers

Presentations by eminent international speakers throughout the year included Stuart Etherington, Chief Executive of the UK National Council for Voluntary Organisations, Peter Hero, President of the Community Foundation Silicon Valley, Kumi Naidoo, Secretary-General of Civicus, the international civil society forum and Dr Diana Leat, Visiting Research Fellow, Deakin University.

Distinguished local speakers included Brett Peterson, Assistant Commissioner, Australian Taxation Office, Camilla Cowley, Convenor of Rural Landholders for Co-existence, Chris Maxwell QC, President of Liberty Victoria, and Yasser Soliman, President of the Islamic Council of Victoria.

Affinity Groups

A number of new affinity groups were established, and met regularly throughout the year. These included the Disability Services, Early Intervention and Supporting Community Action affinity groups. The meetings provide an opportunity for informal learning and information exchange and draw together grantmakers with common philanthropic interests.

Professional Development and Training

New, full day Australian Grantmakers' and half day Effective Grantmaking workshops were introduced in the second half of 2001.

Earlier in the year, Australian Directory of Philanthropy workshops were introduced nationally and attracted good attendances.

Complementing the Australian Grantmaker Workshops was the publication of Working with Trusts and Foundations in Australia, an important new work authored by Dr Diana Leat and Heather O'Connor.

International Grantmaker Associations Conference

Philanthropy Australia lobbied strongly and was successful in attracting the Second International WINGS Forum 2002, scheduled for 10-13 March 2002.

The invitation only conference is the meeting place for more than 85 grantmaker associations which represent membership giving more than $20 billion US annually to communities throughout the world.

Statement of Purpose

Philanthropy Australia is the national membership association of grantmaking family, private, corporate and community trusts and foundations. Its purpose is to advance philanthropy within Australia.

The Association represents the shared interests of trusts and foundations and represents philanthropy to government and the community. Formed as a national body in 1975, it has operated a full-time secretariat since 1996.

Philanthropy Australia's work is funded by membership fees, publications' sales, workshops, research services and consultancies and by the generous support of its members and others interested in promoting more effective private and corporate giving within Australia.

Services include Australia's most comprehensive Resource Centre on philanthropic issues, members' seminars on topics and issues of interest to the sector, publication of the journal, Philanthropy, and the bi-annual Australian Directory of Philanthropy, networking and information services for members with special philanthropic interests, lecture series and tours by key national and international speakers, original research on Australian philanthropy and its environment, and advocacy on behalf of members to Federal and State Governments and other major public and private institutions.

The strength of the Association lies ultimately in its membership. The broader the membership base, the greater the potential for Philanthropy Australia to validly and effectively represent the sector.

President's Report

Membership of Philanthropy Australia increased by 17 per cent in 2001, indicative of the health of Australian philanthropy. The establishment of new Prescribed Private Funds in July 2001, a result in part of Philanthropy Australia's effective lobbying at a national level, led to a dramatic increase in the creation of new trusts and foundations.

Australian philanthropy and the broader community also benefited from the first refund of excess imputation credits to registered charities and tax deductible organisations, a measure for which Philanthropy Australia lobbied hard, through its membership of the Prime Minister's Tax Sub-committee. This has had a very significant impact, making many millions of additional dollars available for grantmaking.

Philanthropy Australia is now engaged in a strategic planning exercise, determining its priorities for the next three years. Taxation reform, with its emphasis on removing disincentives to philanthropy, and introducing incentives to charitable giving, will be top of the list.

A significant player in Australian philanthropy for the last 30 years, The Stegley Foundation, closed in July. Established by the late Brian and Shelagh Stegley in 1973, the foundation was always intended to have a limited life. It made the most of its term, earning a reputation as a visionary, progressive and innovative foundation. The philanthropic community was saddened at its closure, but celebrated its success at a marvellous farewell party cum closing ceremony.

This year we welcomed with pleasure a new Leading Member – the Council for the Encouragement of Philanthropy (CEPA), led by Ron Clarke. Leading Members make an additional financial contribution to Philanthropy Australia, which is used to underwrite the organisation's work in promoting the growth of philanthropy. I would like to thank all our Leading Members, whose generosity has allowed the organisation to continue its mission to represent and educate for the further development of philanthropy as a means of providing public benefit for Australian society.

We are grateful to the ANZ Bank, which provides Philanthropy Australia's office quarters, and to Freehills, which continues to provide expert legal guidance and assistance.

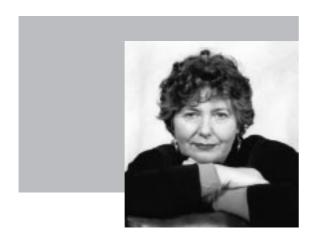

Council Member Warwick Smith resigned in December. I would like to thank him and all the hardworking members of the Philanthropy Australia Council for their energy and commitment to its work. The council is strong and united, and discussion around the table is of a high level.

The Council and staff of Philanthropy Australia look forward to continuing our work in pursuit of your interests in 2002.

National Director's Report

The secretariat continued to consolidate its major services to members throughout 2001. Advocacy on behalf of the sector continued with federal, state and local governments, and also with industry bodies, business, media and the broader community.

We were sorry to farewell Esther Lethlean, Jane McCaffrey and Rita Sullivan, but welcomed the addition of four new staff members, Louise Arkles, Grant Hooper, Nicola Johnson and Kerrie Zammit.

The other major consolidation and development was within the Resource Centre. A grant from Dame Elisabeth Murdoch allowed us to implement a series of information technology projects as well as to employ a new part-time librarian. Under her guidance the Resource Centre and its services have flourished; developments in this area include:

- development of a classification system based on that of the Foundation Center (New York) with Australian modifications:
- cataloguing of the Resource Centre collection and inclusion of these records on the National Library's Kinetica database;
- launch of Philanthropy Australia's redesigned website saw a dramatic increase in the number of hits (200,000 per month);
- purchase of a conservation standard photograph storage system in order to preserve and make accessible the association's photographic collection; and
- development of professional development workshops for grantmakers.

These projects will be completed with the unveiling of the second phase of Philanthropy Australia's website in April 2002, including a members-only password protected section, and the ability to search both the Resource Centre Catalogue and the Australian Directory of Philanthropy online.

Philanthropy Australia has been welcomed as the first international member of the Council on Foundation's Consortium of Foundation Libraries, a network of libraries and information centres which share resources and coordinate information services for foundations and their supporting organisations. Our library catalogue infrastructure was praised by Worldwide Initiatives for Grantmaker Support - Community Foundations (WINGS-CF) as the most developed philanthropy classification system outside the US. I would like to congratulate Ruth Jones, Louise Arkles and Vanessa Meachen for their work and I hope to report next year that this huge resource is being used even more extensively by the membership.

International alliances with our sister bodies and other global philanthropic organisations such as CIVICUS and WINGS were also consolidated. This is most clearly evidenced by Philanthropy Australia being asked to host the WINGS Forum in Sydney in March 2002. Philanthropy Australia also consolidated its relationship with existing academies with a research interest in philanthropy. We are delighted to see that two new centres have been established: the Centre of Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies at Queensland University of Technology and the Asia Pacific Centre for Philanthropy and Social Investment at Swinburne University of Technology.

Finally, none of this work could have been done without the support of the members of the Council. I would like to thank each one of them and especially our President, Lady Southey, who works tirelessly for the benefit of the organisation and the membership. I would also like to thank the staff, who not only work hard but continue to give their commitment and loyalty to the organisation.

Executive Committee's Report

Financial Plan and Operating Results

The financial plan and budget adopted by Council at the start of the financial year envisaged another year of expansion, both in terms of the range of activities and services to members and, hence, the level of resources required. The plan and budget were achieved on the income side but costs were substantially overrun.

A substantial proportion of this growth was funded by an increase in membership fees, due to growth in membership numbers, an increase in grants received for specific tasks and an increase in consulting fees received. An anticipated increase in Leading Members was not met, but this did not impact on the financial results, due to higher than anticipated revenues in other areas of the organisation.

Income

Total income for the year was $936,457, up $103,080 (12.36 per cent) on last year.

Members' fees increased, (by 15.4 per cent, up from $233,673 to $269,648), as a consequence of an increase in members in all categories. Leading Members' fees showed a marked decrease of $115,000 (39.66 per cent) resulting from the timing of income brought to account last year.

Directory sales decreased substantially, (by 50.87 per cent, down from $115,285 to $56,640), as a direct result of the impending release of the 11th edition of 'The Australian Directory of Philanthropy' due early 2002. This is in line with the second year of sales of the 9th edition of 'The Australian Directory of Philanthropy.'

Workshop fees increased substantially, (by 626 per cent, up from $2,750 to $19,976), as a direct result of the introduction of grantmaker workshops and increased volumes of grantseeker workshops.

Grants brought to account during the year amounted to $192,844, a marked increase from $81,370 (137 per cent). A grant received from Lady Southey ($100,000) was capitalised and will be brought to account next financial year.

A net increase of $111,151 or 100 per cent was recorded in all other sources of income. This resulted mainly from WINGS Forum monies received for the conference being held March 2002, and consulting fees received for community foundation studies locally and overseas.

Expenses

Total expenses increased by $187,727 (25.11 per cent) compared to last year. This $110,000 was expected due to an additional staff member being employed for a full year ($30,000) and upgrading of the resource centre and website ($80,000). The remaining $77,000 was expended on staff recruitment ($12,593) with one new staff member and three staff replacements; depreciation of board room fitout which was capitalised in 2000 ($22,727); and grants given for six feasibility studies of rural community foundations made possible by the grant received from Department of Transport and Regional Development ($22,727). After allowing for the above, expenses increased by an average of 2.3 per cent.

Final Operating Result

The final result for 2001 was a surplus of $1,220, compared to a surplus of $84,646 achieved in the previous year. This was a 98 per cent decrease on the budgeted surplus of $73,597.

Financial Position and Liquidity

The general Fund Account, representing accumulated members' funds, rose from $93,591 at the end of the last financial year, to $94,811 at year end, though the retention of the year's net surplus of $1,220.

The Future

Philanthropy Australia looks forward to sustained and substantial growth over the next three years.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

This financial report is a general purpose financial report that has been prepared in accordance with Australian Accounting Standards, Urgent Issues Group Consensus Views and other authoritative pronouncements of Australian Accounting Standards Board and the requirements of the Associations Incorporations Act Victoria. The financial report is prepared on an accruals basis and is based on historical costs and does not take into account changing money values or, except where stated, current valuations of non-current assets. Cost is based on fair values of the consideration given in exchange for assets. The accounting policies have been consistently applied, unless otherwise stated.

The following is a summary of the material accounting policies adopted by the Association in the preparation of the financial report:

(a) Revenue

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised upon delivery of goods to customers.

Interest revenue is recognised on a proportional basis taking into account the interest rates applicable to the financial assets.

Revenue from Full, Associate and Resource Centre members, is recognised when invoiced. When the payment is received, the portion paid in advance is accounted for as unearned income and amortised over the remainder of the subscription year.

Revenue from Leading Members fees are treated as grants received and brought to account in the year that it is due.

(b) Income tax

The association believes it is income tax exempt. The association currently has an application for endorsement as an Income Tax Exempt Charity (ITEC) with the Australian Taxation Office.

(c) Inventories

Inventories consist of finished goods being publications and are measured at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs are assigned on a specific identification basis and include direct costs and appropriate overheads, if any.

(d) Furniture and equipment

The depreciation rates amount of all furniture and equipment are depreciated on a straight line basis over useful lives of the assets to the association commencing from the time the asset is held ready for use.

The depreciation rates used for each class of depreciable asset are:

Depreciation rate

Furniture and fixtures 30 per cent
Office equipment 30 per cent

The carrying amount of furniture and equipment is reviewed annually by councillors to ensure it is not in excess of the recoverable amount of those assets.

The recoverable amount is assessed on the basis of expected net cash flows which will be received from the assets' employment and subsequent disposal. The expected net cash flows have not been discounted to their present values in determining the recoverable amounts.

1. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES continued

(e) Leases

Lease payments under operating leases, where substantial all the risks and benefits remain with the lessor, are charged as expenses in the periods in which they are incurred.

(f) Employee entitlements

Provision is made for the company's liability for the employee entitlements arising from services rendered by employees to balance date. Employee entitlements expected to be settled within one year together with entitlements arising from wages and salaries, annual leave and sick leave which will be settled after one year, have been measured at their nominal rate. Other employee entitlements payable later than one year have been measured at the present value of estimated future cash outflows to be made for those entitlements.

Contributions are made by the association to an employee superannuation fund and are charged as expenses when incurred.

(g) Cash

For the purposes of the statement of cash flows, cash includes cash on hand, at banks, on deposit, and bank bills.

The property lease is a non-cancellable lease with a three-year term, with rent in a lump sum when invoiced. Rental provisions within the lease agreement state that the minimum lease payments shall not be increased. An option exists to renew the lease at the end of the three-year term for an additional term of three years.

14. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

(a) Interest rate risk

The Association's exposure to interest rate risk that a financial instrument's value will fluctuate as a result of changes in market interest rates and the effective weighted average interest rates on those financial assets and financial liabilities, is as follows:

	_	leighted average ective interest rate		Floating interest rate		d interest in 1 year	rate maturing 1 to 5 years
	2001	2000	2001	2000	2001	2000	2001	2000

Total financial liabilities	-	-	365,795	307,195	-	-	-	-

(b) Credit risk

The maximum exposure to credit risk, excluding the value of any collateral or other security at balance date to recognised financial assets is the carrying amount, net of any provisions for doubtful debts, as disclosed in the balance sheet and notes to the financial statements.

The association does not have any material credit risk exposure to any single debtor or group of debtors under financial instruments entered into by the association.

(c) Net fair values

Methods and assumptions used in determining net fair value.

The net fair values of listed investments have been valued at the quoted market bid price at balance date adjusted for transaction costs expected to be incurred. For other assets and other liabilities the net fair value approximates their carrying value. No financial assets and financial liabilities are readily traded on organised markets in standardised form other than listed investments. Financial assets where the carrying amount exceeds net fair values have not been written down as the economic entity intends to hold these assets to maturity.

The aggregate net fair values and carrying amounts of financial assets and liabilities are disclosed in the balance sheet and in the notes to the financial statements.

INDEPENDENT AUDIT REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF PHILANTHROPY AUSTRALIA INC

Scope

We have audited the financial report of Philanthropy Australia Inc. for the year ended 31 December 2001 comprising the Statement of Financial Position, Statement of Financial Performance, the Statement of Cash Flows and the Notes to the Financial Statements. The Council is responsible for the financial report. We have conducted an independent audit of the financial report in order to express an opinion on it to the members.

Our audit has been conducted in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards to provide reasonable assurance whether the financial report is free of material misstatement. Our procedures included examination, on a test basis, of evidence supporting the amounts and other disclosures in the financial report, and the evaluation of accounting policies and significant accounting estimates. These procedures have been undertaken to form an opinion whether, in all material respects, the financial report is presented fairly in accordance with Accounting Standards and other mandatory professional reporting requirements so as to present a view which is consistent with our understanding of the association's financial position and performance as represented by the results of its operations and its cash flows.

The audit opinion expressed in this report has been formed on the above basis.

Carpen Lubly

Audit Opinion

In our opinion, the financial report presents fairly in accordance with applicable Accounting Standards and other mandatory professional reporting requirements the financial position of Philanthropy Australia Inc. as at 31 December 2001, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended.
